Presentation:

- The Making of America Through Immigration: A look at immigration from the very beginning and how these early immigrants formed America. Available in long and abridged versions.
- Southern Colonies and the Revolutionary War: A study of how the Southern States were instrumental in the war for American independence.
- A Girl Named Sarah: A family history, a baby born, and the impact this baby would have on the founding of your nation.
- Lock Em Up and Let Em Out: A look at the Old Bailey Court System and how the courts were used to populate the Colonies.
- Southern Roots/ Deep Roots: An overview of Genealogy in the South and hints that might help knock down your Southern brick walls. We look at all the southern states and even a few that only think they are southern.
- WISE Folk in the Colonial South: A look at where the Welsh, Irish, Scottish, and English settled in the southern colonies, and why?
- WISE Folk in the Colonial North (Part 1): A look at the New England colonies and why the immigrants from the British Isles settled here.
- WISE Folk in the Colonial North (Part 2): A look at the Mid-Atlantic colonies and why the immigrants from the British Isles settled here.
- Papa's Bible: There is more to this bible than the dates in the front. The information that changed the way I viewed my paternal family.
- Union Strongholds in a Confederate South: We are going to root out those places in the South where Northern influence was strong, and why they chose to honor the Union.
- Revolutionary Women: From Molly Pitcher to Betsy Ross. Women did more than keep the home fires burning during the war for independence. The women we will study were strong, brave, and daring individuals who contributed to the success of the American Revolution.

- Ancestral Echoes: The Power of Storytelling in Genealogy. Every family has stories. As genealogists, it is our duty to save these stories and pass them forward. We will discuss what storytelling matters and the techniques for writing your stories.
