Presentations:

- The Strange Case of Gottlieb Saylor: German-Russian immigrant. US Pioneer. Deaf-mute since childhood. Homesteader, sued by the US Government for failing to make his claim. He's a puzzle. Can you help me solve it?
- Mapping Your Family History -- Using different mapping tools to solve problems and enrich your family history.
- What a Disaster! This class will give you some ideas on writing about and researching weather events and where to find imagery that will help you enhance and embellish your stories.
- Family History and Military Service. This class will give you some ideas on writing and researching your ancestors or relatives who have served in the military, including medals, job descriptions, uniforms, weaponry, and equipment, regardless of the branch of the military or the country they served.
- Veterans Write: Encouraging Veteran's to write their stories. Some ideas to get organized and get started.
- Ships: What kind of information can you find out about your ancestor's immigrant ships or troop movement ships? If you enjoy a good rabbit hole, this is one of mine.
- Color Commentary (or the Immigrant Experience); What the immigrant saw and experienced leaving their country of origin and arriving in the US.
